

Reference for Andrei Cursaru:

This is a reference for Andrei Cursaru who is currently doing his BA in Politics and Economics at the University of Lancaster. I have known Andrei for a while now since he is currently doing one of my BA third year modules ‘Understanding External Intervention in Violent Conflicts’, which he attends with great enthusiasm. Andrei is a very good student. He has always been very regular with his classes, has always participated in seminar group discussions and always does the relevant reading for seminars. He is indeed a very hardworking student, has been productive throughout the course and has good writing skills which he has also developed further with time. Throughout the course, he has expanded his knowledge in the areas that I covered (which revolved mainly around different aspects of Asian politics/Asian security) by doing the relevant reading and also by developing an analytical approach towards the module. Andrei has a special interest in International Security especially security of the Korean Peninsula which has great potential. He is passionate about his research and has a cheerful disposition. He is efficient, well organised, reliable, responsive, pro active and patient. He has a very good academic background and I support his efforts to pursue higher education. I am absolutely confident that he will do very well in future with his studies and he has the unalloyed enthusiasm for the challenges of postgraduate study/academia in the UK. He has been an absolute pleasure to work with, and I hope you will give his application serious consideration.

If there is anything else that you need to know about Andrei, please contact me directly.

Thank you.

Dr. Kunal Mukherjee
k.mukherjee1@lancaster.ac.uk

Lecturer in International Relations,
PPR, University of Lancaster, UK.